The China Itiail.

Hongkong, Priday, August 16, 1889. WE do not suppose that the departure of Chang Chih T'ung from Canton will cause much disappointment to foreigners. The Vicercy never took trouble to conceal his anti-foreignsentiments, and although he has shown himself auxious to introduce certain Western improvements, this very feeling of antipathy towards foreigners has led him to adopt methods of carrying out these inprovements which have rendered most of them ineffective. His memorial on railways showed that there is in his mind a strange jumble of ancient Chinese thought and Western ideas. He has advanced enough to recognise the advantages of railways, but his conservatism leads him to recommend Chinese methods for raising the capital and constructing the lines. The motives which guide the Chinese Government in its actions are generally inscrutable to outside barbarians. The tortuous rather than the straight course is generally taken. In the case, however, of the transference of Chang Chih T'ung to the governorship of Hunan and Hupeh, the dosign would seem to be pretty obvi-Hankow, the southern terminal point of the trunk line which he recommended, is in the province of Hupch, and The Union Line a. s. Worthern, from Antwhat could be more natural then that the Vicercy should be dispatched to a centro where he could superintend the carrying out of his project. His transference might therefore be interpreted to mean an approval of his memorial by the authorities at Peking and a resolution to immediately carry out his suggestion. And there can be no doubt, if China really intends to go at No. 1s. Bank Buildings, Queen's in for railways, that the trunk line suggested by the Vicercy would be one of the most advantageous both on military and commercial grounds. The frontier lines so strongly recommended in certain quarters would be of very dubious value. Were Goods per Hesperia undelivered after this China organised like Western countries, had she a disciplined army united under Noon .- Meeting of Shareholders of The one chief, instead of scattered troops with little or no cohesive power, it would be of great importance to have strategic lines along her frontier by which troops could be concentrated at a given point to resist an invasion. But in her present condition such lines might prove more advantageous to her enemies than to herself. Her best means of repelling an attack either along her Northern or South-Western frontier is the adoption of the harassing tactics which so disconcerted the French in Tonkin, and for this purpose the more desolate the region and the from Yau-ma-ti on Sunday last. The fewer facilities of communication the better. Once China, by the help of the Hankow-Peking and other central railway lines, which we hope will some day be constructed; has obtained a means of concentrating her energies and has bound together in a closer union the central and most populated provinces—once Central China has become an organised whole instead of a loosely-jointed agglomeration, till the preliminary arrangements were comit will be time for her to push forward railways towards her distant frontiers. Meantime, it would be folly on her part to risk a decisive battle on her borders. Where concentration is most needed is in the central provinces; for, while improved weapons may enable her to make invesion of her northern and western frontiers more fortune to be visited by Inspector Stanton difficult, her undisciplined myriads, even and a number of constables. The menwith modern weapons, could not de- were each sentenced to six months' imprifend Peking against the army of any somment with hard labour. Western power. Railways which will link the central provinces more closely together and permit of the forces being mobilised and trained for united action are therefore of prime importance. Of the commercial advantages of such lines there cannot be the slightest doubt." While, however, there is some reason to believe that the authorities in Peking are alive to the importance of Chang Chih T'ung's SELTZER WATER recommendations and mean to carry them out without delay, it is quite possible that his transference may be due to some other reason. In his memorial on railways the Vidirty, or greasy, or that appear to have | tsin-Tungchow railway, in fact he devoted been used for any other purpose than more space to the condemnation of this project than to the recommendation of his own schemes, and he advanced against it all the arguments, good, bad and indiffevative party. The energy with which he one suspect that his ardour was quickened by jealousy of Li Hung Chang, who has all along strongly supported the extension of the Tientsin railway to Tungohow. As the Viceroy leaves Canton to make way for the elder brother of Li Hung Chang-an old man who can scarcely be desirous of redoubtless be under the influence of his greater brother-it is not improbable that latter to increase his own power. Perhaps Viceroy Li thinks that Chang Chih Tung, when he sets himself to construct bis grand trunk lines on the plans he has laid down, will find his task a more difficult one than he imagines and may be less inclined to carp and cavil at the amail tentative Tientain-Tungchow line. But whatever may be the motives that have led to the change, foreigners will on the whole be pleased to see the Government of the Two Kwang in the hands of a man less-inimical to them and their ways.

> THE following letter from Chungking appears in the N. C. Daily News :- The N.-C. Herald of 22ad June contains a clipping from the Shen Pao in re the fire at Luchow, Szechuan. The correspondence that has taken place between the residents at the Peak and the Government on the subject the system of storing it, but that is a will probably be fully in your minds, but I shall just briefly recapitulate them. The commencement of the negotiations with the Government took place by a letter addressed by Mr Ede, on the suggestion of several residents at the Peak, to the Governor in March last-I think I am right. To that letter no reply was made by the Governor. A further letter was then addressed to him on 14th May, which was almost unanimously signed by the residents then at the Peak. That letter was duly acknowledged, but as time were on, no steps having been taken to remove what we considered a very noxious nuisance to the residents, a further letter addressed to the Governor on the 29th July last, which will be fresh in your memories. To that letter we have a reply dated 8th August, written by the Colonial Secretary, which is as follows:-

With reference to the letter signed by to be removed, and the more water it vourself and others dated the 29th ultimo has for that the better. If the surface on the subject of the drainage at the Peak, water has access to pipes which I am directed by the Governor to acquaint too small for it the balance would flow you that your former letter was referred to away on the surface in the ordinary manthe Sanitary Board, which has taken no nor. Mr Ede suggested that the proposition should now be put to the meeting. . The Chairman put the motion accordingy, and it was carried unanimously. The Chairman-Mr Sharp, have you any pinion on the question that you can favour

Mr Granville Sharp—As has been already be increasing, and as I understand it at present no provision whatever has been made, and I am not aware of any tentative arrangements having been atempted to meet this. But the fact romains that we must have water or we can't live there. As the Chairman has already remarked, drainage is essentially dependent on the water supply. The bucket system which prevails is an admirable one, and I hope nothing will ever be done either on the hill or in the valley that well tend to the abandonment or even the impediment of that most useful arrangement. Possibly, however, there may be an advantage in a six-inch pipe system of drainage where sewage has to be concentrated for the purpose of irrigation or agriculture; but it would seem that we don't want to have it concentrated but rather diluted as much as possible, and in that case I should think that a nine inch pipe into which the surface water could flow would be preferable to a pipe of small diameter such as those now put down. It is a question whether we want the sewage exceedingly concentrated for agricultural purposes - which I think we don't or whether we want it diluted for the purpose of speedy removal. I think there s no question about it that we want it
